POLICE CAPTAINS STILL IN DE-MAND BY LEXOW'S COMMITTEE.

Dr. Parkhurst in Attendance and Wishing Byrnes Were There Stonnynought Would be a Traitor But Not a Perjurer - Captain Strauss Stands Fire Quite Well.

New York, Dec. 20.-Dr. Parkhurst, who has not attended the sittings of the Lexow committee for some time. was an early arrival today. Theusual crowd of police captains were present and affected an unconcerned air before the proceedings opened.

In an interview Dr. Parkhurst said that in his opinion Superintendent Byrnes was, as a representative of the police department, one of the persons ho should by all means be placed on the witness stand; that if such a proceeding were not had the records of the committee would not be complete.

Walter S. Harrison, a builder, testi-fied that in 1831 and 1832 he built the Morris building. He was obliged to pay $250 to Wardman Burns, acting for Captain McLaughlin, for the privi-lege of companies the

Mr. Morris read an affidavit from ex-Detective Stannynought, formerly of the Parkhurst society. Before this tes-timony was read, Mr. Morris stated that Stannynought was afraid of the New York police department, conse-quently he required five days notice in order to get out of the city before the statement was read in open court.

WOULDN'T PERLURE HIMSELF WOULDN'T PERJURE HIMSELF

This affidavit set forth that on July 24th of last year. Stannynaught made en effort to get on the detective force under Inspector Williams, but Williams wanted him to swear falsely against Superintendent Wishart, of the Parkhurst society. This he refused to against Superintendent washart, of the Parkburst society. This he refused to do, although he acknowledged that he was willing to sell the secrets of the modely in order to get on the force. He refused to make false oaths and was oot employed by Inspector Williams. Captain Allayre was then called by Mr. Goff and questioned concerning Egan's notorious resort on the Bowers. He never saw Egan's license and tild not know he had any. He arrested Egan for breaking the excise law. Captain Strauss was called to the

A. H. SODEN,
The findings were shown to Barnie in the corridor of the hotel. On reading them he said: "I see they have re-instated me. I can act for myself in the future. I shall see Mr. Byrne about this."

Barnie then had a talk with Mr. Byrne.

You have reinstated me," said he after insinuating to the clubs that I should not be employed. On what evidence was this decision reached?"

Mr. Byrne declined to answer. "The stenograph notes will present your evidence and the public will be able to judge of the whole matter."

TALK OF PULLING DOWN.

"Well," said Barnie, "you have joined here today to pull me down because I would not sign the document Mr. Young asked me to sign. I won't sign it, even if I was to be suspended. You know that I have always been an honest member of the league, and that's more than I can say for you."

"Do you remember a conversation "Do you remember a conversation to had with me in Baltimore in 1891.

If you don't I do, and if I am to be pulled down I will pull you down with me. You are always posing as being an honest member of the league, but I can your brother members and the public what your actions have been." Mr. Byrne, who was in the most ex-cited state, cried: "You can say what-ever you like. My reputation is well 'Here, gentlemen," said Mr. Barnie,

A WOMAN'S MEETING.

Defiance of Parliamentary Law.

As a rule, women have no use for paritamentary law and very few ideas of organiration. This was humorously illustrated the other day when half a dozen ladies met to organize a church charitable society. After they had sat looking at each other a trifle nervously for awhile one of them said: "It seems we are here. Now, what are

"Oh, dear," said another, "I don't know, but do let us do something." What they did was to fall to talking

Washington, Dec. 20.-The veiling that has concealed the statues of Danel Webster and General Stark which have been placed in the extreme north end of Statuary hall in the national capitol, as the gift of the people of the state of New Hampshire, was quietly removed at moon today and the public was for the first time permitted to look upon these latest additions to the national collection of memorial figures.

pression not shown in the usual prints and busts of the great orator. He stands erect, clad in old-time dress coat and choker, his left hand grasp-ing a roll of manuscript. General Starke wears the confinen-tal uniform and his right hand rests on the hilt of a sheathed sword. Govern-or Smith and staff expresed great sat-isfaction with both statues.

The senate and house both took appropriate action upon the reception of the works of art, but not in the hall where the statues stood. There were appropriate speeches and resolutions but these proceedings were conducted by each body in its hall of general meeting. The speeches were without exception carefully prepared reviews of the lives and characters of the men to shom the day was devoted and while whom the day was devoted and while there was no apparent effort in any instance to catch the ear by flights of oratory, there were many passages which are likely to be quoted in any future life of the revolutionary hero and the great expounder of th constitu-tion. Governor Smith and his staff oc-cupied scats in the senate chamber during the proceedings and were the poor attentive auditors. nost attentive auditors.
